

DAY 16 COOBER PEDY to KINGOONYA 8th October 2015

We were heading for Streaky Bay and if we stayed on the bitumen it would mean going through Port Augusta. However, by travelling on some more dirt road and going through Kingoonya it would save us 180 miles of travel! You guessed it we headed for Kingoonya. Kingoonya is on the Trans Line and was on the main road until a major realignment. Now it is a nearly a ghost town with an old Hotel and a card operated fuel pump! It was our lunch stop where we enjoyed a beer and an hamburger or similar. Fly swats were provide when you ate outside. After a pleasant lunch it was back to the dirt for a few more hours before finding a clearing for our bush camp.
